Vista dedicated to Mr. Kermit Leininger

Many people have contributed over the years to the distinction and respectability of Harrison Hill Junior High School. As each has contributed, so each has benefited from the experiences and associations in this fine school. Although the doors are closing for the last time, the spirit that is Harrison Hill will continue to be a positive influence in our lives.

Administrators lead faculty and students

Mr. Kermit Leininger, principal, is responsible for keeping the entire junior high functioning smoothly. He meets with parents, discusses teaching techniques with the faculty, and tries to become acquainted with all students.

Dr. Glenn Mulligan, assistant principal, provides guidance and understanding for the students of Harrison Hill. He is very interested in student concerns and helps them determine the best way to solve their problems.

helped by Miss Moore and office secretaries

Miss Beverly Moore, guidance counselor, is busily completing forms to help students.

Mrs. Joan Sterling types a news bulletin to be taken home by students at the end of the day, while Mrs. Burnice Toor is preparing for the daily announcements.

ACADEMICS

Romantic languages enchant ninth graders

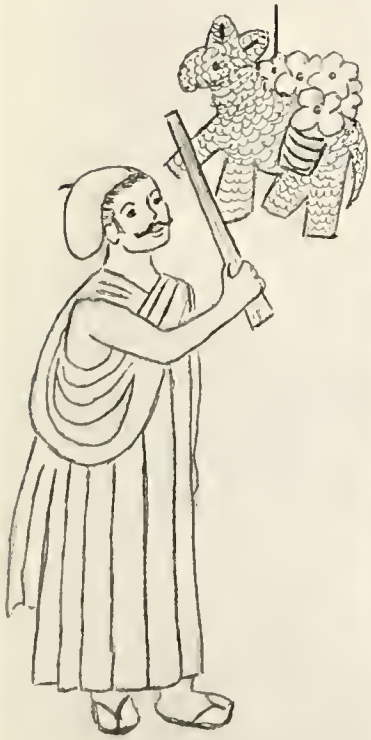
Sandy Kunkel, Corky Keck, Nancy Rehrer and Ann Curry all enjoy the fun-filled times of Latin. Here they model Roman attire.



Here are the three basic ways of learning French. Debbie Scott shows how to recite. Laura Drummond operates the tape recorder, and Robert Burrell refers to his French book.

Vista recognizes 1970-71 bookworms

George Fruechtenicht of Mrs. Jeannette Smith's Developmental Reading class enjoys studying Current Events.

Mr. Ron Fecher helps his seventh grade classes with new reading skills.

Exciting stories hold eighth graders' attention in Mr. Urban Steckler's Language Arts class.

Colleen Matter entertains her classmates with a review of a recent book.

The sciences are studied by all grades

Mr. Michael Fulk tries to explain the complicated process of using the microscope to students Susan Houser and Dave Clark.

Ninth grade students Kim Rudolph, Pete Buzzard, Jim Cahoon, Rick Orr, and Dennis Donlan take apart Charlie, "the bod" while Mr. Michael Johnson supervises.

Mrs. Jane Griggs' eighth grade students Julie Wildermuth, Sandra Fennig ask for assistance with their assignment.

The "valuable" use of a still is demonstrated by Beth Williams, Brad Boyd, John Billingsley and Mrs. Cheryl Strader.

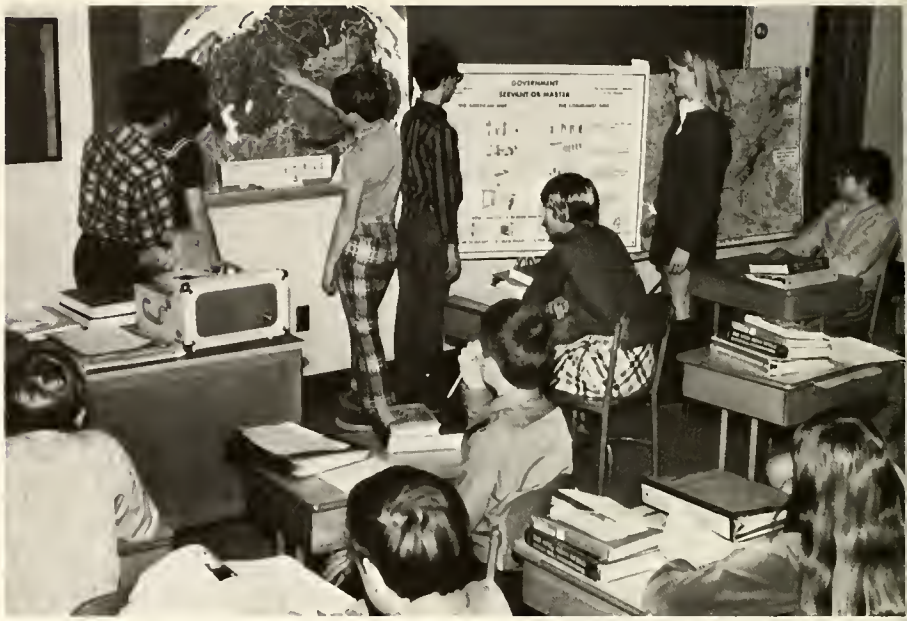
Math presents new challenge

Miss Virginia Danuser's ninth grade Algebra class shows courage in attempting to finish algebraic equations.

Mr. Dallas Gisler's eighth grade mathematics class demonstrate their intelligence by the use of chalk and compasses.

Seventh grade students Jennifer Ramsey, John Whitcraft, Randy Hambrock, and Teresa Sheets draw geometric figures in Miss Mary Catherine Hahn's class.

Thinking is required in all subjects



Maps are looked at by Thomas Converset, Christina Zala, Kenneth Schaab, Billy Compton, JoAnn Keirns.

Students put their minds and mouths to work during Mrs. Orma Heaston's Study Hall. Study hall makes a handy "prop" for the ninth graders.

Nancy Williams and Dan Treager conduct Miss Freda Withers' History Class about our Hoosier State.

Creativity is shown throughout the school

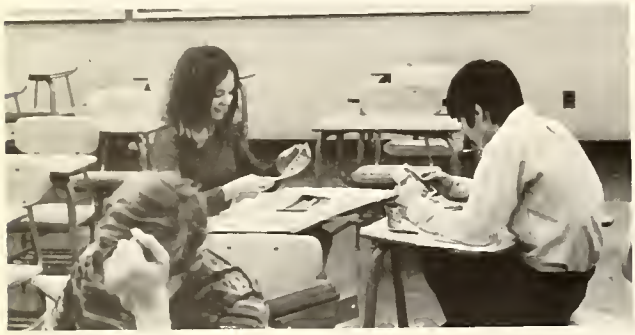
Mr. Frank Goldman's seventh grade enjoys Shop Class.

Delsina Toohig mixes up a salad in eighth grade Home Economics class.

The rhythmic wands enthuse the girls in Miss Shirley Nicholas' eighth grade Gym class.

Lettering is one of the projects of Mr. Frank Robert's eighth grade Art class.

All students enjoy each other



MISCELLANEOUS

Look how the ninth graders have changed!

Remember the good old days!

The important trio for elementary includes Mrs. Lucile Beeson, Principal William Redmaster, and Mrs. Bettie Leakey.

Fifth grade teacher, Mr. Jack Spindler, enjoys his job sup vising recess. Recess sure beats our five minute breaks.

Mrs. Marcia Gabet's kindergarten class reminds us of the days when we could listen to Jack and Jill, and Peter Rabbit instead of Biology lectures or Algebraic theories.

And this is the way we got the job done
